

Smells Like Team Spirit

The secret to high-performance team productivity

Length/Format

3 hours (workshop, discussion, planning and practical action)

Overview

YOU may be a 'productivity ninja' but what about Dave from accounts?! Well, this workshop brings the whole team together to focus on key changes and practical behaviours that will increase team productivity. During the workshop the team work together to develop practical action plans to improve performance and even make on the day. Throughout the session we introduce leading-edge team productivity theory and techniques from 37Signals, Verne Harnish, Merlin Mann, McKinsey, Charles Leadbeater, Google, David Allen & Nancy Kline.

What you'll learn & do:

Introduction:

- What makes a team tick... and why it's different from what makes YOU tick
- An overview of group theory & "productivity team roles"
- The current state of play for your team: what's going well, what could be better, what would a high-performing team look like for you.

The team will then work on these three 30 minute modules:

- Alignment to purpose: agreeing how as a team, success is measured. This section helps implement a daily or weekly 'huddle' to promote constant alignment and a steely focus on what really matters
- Pet peeves: A chance for the team to discuss and rectify those oh-so-human elements of team performance (in a sensitive, safe environment) and agree a productive way forward.
- Creativity and Innovation: discuss innovation techniques such as Google's 70/20/10 rule and develop an action plan to support increasing creativity in the team
